ENOCH ARDEN.—A large audience greeted the performance of Enoch Arden at DeGive's last night. It was a brilliant success for the Histrionic Society. Every character was well sustained. The young lady who personated the character of Mrs. Enoch Arden was encored, and called out before the curtain. The Histrionics deserve great credit for their rendition of Enoch Arden.

Special Correspondence to The Constitution.

Commencement at the University—Third Day's Proceedings—Action of the Board of Trustees—Action of the Alumni—Alumni Oration by Hon. Robert Toombs—Address of Mr. W. B. Walker.

ATHENS, GA., August 6, 1872.

Editors Constitution: The attendance is greatly increased. Visitors are constantly arriving, many of them, doubtless, drawn hither by the promised address of Mr. Toombs.

The Board of Trustees met at 9 o'clock this morning in Library Hall. The salaries of professors were raised from $2,000 to $2,250, owing to the addition of the College of Agricultural and Mechanical Arts, and the consequent increase of labor upon these officers.

Colonel Wm. Leroy Broun was elected permanent President of State College. A division was made in the chair of ancient languages, whereby Prof. Wm. Henry Waddell was retained exclusively in the department of latin language and literature. Prof. Charles Morris assigned exclusively to the department of Greek language and literature; and Prof. Frank Lipscomb transferred to Belles Letres. Dr. Wm. L. Jones resigned his chair. The complete organization of State College could not be effected owing to the non-receipt of the entire agricultural fund. Arrangements have been made with the Central Railroad, the Western and Atlantic Railroad, and the Georgia Railroad, to transport students to the State College from any part of the State, over their respective lines, and all their several connections free of charge. This locality is thus made more accessible than Dahlonega, or than any other point of Georgia.

An arrangement has been effected by which board is to be furnished to State students at $12 50 per month.

Few apprehensions are entertained of the successful event of the effort now being made in the Legislature to divide the scrip fund, as such divestment of the vested rights of the University is generally thought to be clearly unconstitutional.

The chair of Dr. Wm. L. Jones, resigned, will be speedily filled, and Chemistry and its applications to Industrial Arts, will be brought into yet greater prominence.

The appointments to State College will hereafter be made through the Trustees resident in the community whence the appointee is to come.

THE SOCIETY OF ALUMNI

met at 9 A. M. and at 5, P. M. The election of the four Trustees, committed to this body by the Act of 1871, was had, which resulted as follows: N. J. Hammond, Atlanta, four years term; Pope Barrow, Oglethorpe, three years; A. O. Bacon, of Macon two years; J. C. Rutherford, Bainbridge, one year. Each term will hereafter be for four years from the expiration of the above. A committee of sixty of the Alumni were appointed at large in every part of the State, to arrange the banquet for next year, and a resident committee of five as an executive board. A resolution recommending organization of Alumni Clubs throughout the State. A resolution to print the speech of Hon. Robt. Toombs before the Society to-day, passed.

The exercises in the chapel this morning were opened with prayer by Bishop George F. Pierce.

The following among other distinguished persons occupied seats upon the stage:

Chancellor A. A. Lipscomb, Governor Charles J. Jenkins, Bishop George F. Pierce, Dr. A. Means, Judge James Jackson, William Hope Hull, Stephens Thomas, N. J. Hammond, Colonel Joel Abbott Billups, Gov. M. L. Bonham, General A. C. Garlington, Hon. Martin J. Crawford, Hon. Henry W. Hilliard, General A. R. Wright, Dr. Milburn, Hon. James L. Seward, Colonel James Gardner, Colonel Samuel Hall, Hon. Mark A. Cooper, Hon. Benjamin L. Yancey.

Mr. Toombs was introduced by Col. Wm. L. Mitchell, President of Alumni. As this address will be published, your readers are left to judge of its merits upon their own inspection. It was vigorous, vehement and grandly eloquent, but very short—perhaps too short for the occasion. The orator's thoughts were so closely compacted and rapidly uttered it was next to impossible to obtain an accurate analysis without setting out the whole speech.

MR. W. B. WALKER,

of Atlanta, as orator for the Demosthenian Society, delivered an admirable address, before a large audience, in the chapel this evening. The press upon your columns will prevent my original design of tracing the orator's thought evolved from his excellent theme, "Popular Education." Mr. Walker displays unusual powers for his years. His manner is easy and unembarrassed, his gestures graceful, and his voice strong and full. To these good qualities he joins the virtue of clear, accurate, and beautiful thinking, altogether making him a most engaging speaker.

The Alumni banquet is appointed for tonight, and its incidents will be detailed in a separate letter. To-morrow is Commencement day proper.

Gen. John B. Gordon arrived this evening. More hereafter. * * *

POWDER SPRINGS, GA., Aug. 3, 1872.

Editors Constitution: At a meeting of the citizens of Powder Springs and vicinity, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted and directed to be sent to THE CONSTITUTION for publication:

Resolved, That we the citizens of Powder Springs and vicinity, now in railroad meeting assembled, do entertain a high appreciation for the Georgia Western Railroad, and that we do hail the enterprise as one of great good, vastly promotive of the material interest and solid prosperity of the country at large.

Resolved, That in our sincere judgment the interests of Powder Springs and her people, and those of the Georgia Western Railroad are in strictest harmony. That a line via our place is a practical one, and that the advantages which would accrue to the road and to Atlanta by the location of a depot at this point would by far overbalance the supposed inconveniences attending this route.

Resolved, That we earnestly and respectfully invite the people of Atlanta and the Georgia Western Railroad Company to contemplate the just claims of our people and the peculiar advantages of our place; and we humbly submit, is it not the true policy to locate the road upon that eligible line where the largest developments are awaiting.

Resolved, That we renew the grant of right-of-way through and over our lands assured in former communications, that we again pledge the fullest co-operation and aid, and decree for this route a most liberal subscription for stock in the company.

Resolved, That THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION and the Sun be requested to publish the proceedings of this meeting.

L. T. MIZELL, Chairman.

J. F. Cotten, Secretary.

Editors Constitution: There was a committee appointed during the last session of the Legislature, on the part of the Senate, to investigate the conduct of T. G. Campbell, Senator from the Second District. Somehow, there was, and still is, an impression abroad that this honorable gentleman has been guilty of sayings and doings which disqualify him from holding the exalted position which he now enjoys, and that the committee appointed by the Legislature to investigate his conduct have ample proof of the facts.

That Committee, however, has not as yet reported, and the public would like to know the reason why. The British Parliament, perhaps, does not furnish a precedent to expel Campbell for his rascalities, simply because it has never had one of the same complexion enjoying the privilege of membership. Can members hesitate in this matter, who are conversant (as the evidence make them) with the infamous outrages perpetrated by this man upon free citizens of Georgia.

CITIZEN.

GEORGIA LEGISLATURE

SENATE.

SATURDAY, August 10, 1872.

The Senate met at 9 A. M. President Trammell in the chair.

Prayer by Rev. Mr. Warren.

The journal of yesterday's proceedings was read.

On motion of Mr. Kibbee the rules were suspended, and a bill to amend the charter of the Atlantic, Fort Valley and Memphis Railroad Company was read third time and passed.

A further suspension was granted, and a bill by Mr. Styles, to authorize the Ordinary of Dougherty county to levy a tax for county purposes was read first time.

Also, a bill by Mr. Griffin of the 6th, to lay out and organize a new county from the counties of Brooks and Thomas counties.

Also, a bill to amend the charter of the Georgia Seaboard and Northwestern Railroad Company.

On motion of Mr. Hinton, the bill in relation to the Lunatic Asylum was set down as the special order for Monday next.

The House bill to incorporate the town of Jefferson was substituted for a Senate bill on the same subject and passed.

The bill to organize a county court for Dougherty county was read third time and passed.

The bill to authorize Superior Courts to incorporate towns and villages was read third time.

Mr. Candler opposed the passage of the bill, and moved to refer it to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Reese said the bill had already been before that committee and carefully considered, and that the said committee was unanimous for its passage.

Mr. Kibbee also favored the passage of the bill.

Mr. Candler's motion prevailed.

Senate bills were read second time.

On motion of Mr. Candler the House resolution authorizing an advance to the State Printer was taken up and concurred in.

Mr. Styles offered a resolution providing that parties holding bonds of this State may be heard by counsel before the Senate as to the legal questions involved.

Mr. Styles advocated the adoption of his resolution.

Mr. Lester opposed it as unprecedented.

Mr. Burns opposed the resolution calling attention to the fair manner pursued by the Bond Committee, in making investigations, etc., and the opportunities given to holders to present their cases.

Mr. Nunnally said he did not approve the resolution, but he thought it due to the holders and to the committee which has been arraigned in the public press, that the subject may be further investigated, he was in favor of allowing counsel to be heard before a committee.

Mr. Styles claimed that the subject was of such importance to the State that all possible light on it should be sought.

Mr. Nunnally offered a substitute for the resolution by Mr. Styles, providing for the appointment of a committee of five to hear the argument of counsel.

Mr. Reese said that counsel for the bondholders have already been heard before the Bond Committee and he thought the object of the bondholders was to get more delay.

Mr. Styles said that no such thing as delay had anything to do with his action in introducing and advocating the resolution.

Mr. Nunnally said he offered his substitute because the Bond Committee has been accused of fraud, and he wanted another committee to report on the same subject in justice to the first committee.

Mr Hillyer was opposed to delay and was willing that the parties could be heard through the press or by memorial, but he was opposed to having outside parties appear before the bar of the Senate and occupy its time.

Mr. Hinton moved to lay the resolution and substitute on the table, which motion prevailed.

A bill by Mr. Cameron—To repeal an act to remove the county site of Telfair county was read first time.

The bill to amend the charter of the Savannah Banking and Trust Company passed.

The Senate, in Executive Session, confirmed the following appointments:

M. Hatch, Solicitor General, Middle Circuit; J. G. Thompson, Solicitor General, Rome Circuit; A. Cox, Solicitor General, Tallapoosa Circuit.

The Senate then adjourned.

HOUSE.

[CORRECTION.—In yesterday's report of Mr. Bacon's speech on the subject of the power of the House to punish for contempt, occurs the following sentence: "The House in such case could override the Constitution." This was an unintentional misstatement by the reporter. The whole object of Mr. Bacon's argument was to show the exercise of the power was inherent in the House, and in entire harmony with the Constitution.]

House met. Speaker Cumming in the Chair.

Prayer by Rev. Mr. Strickland.

Mr. Rawls offered a resolution authorizing the Governor to draw his warrant on the Treasurer for the sum of $5,000 in favor of the Public Printer in advance, which was agreed to and transmitted to the Senate.

The following bills were read the first time:

To incorporate Rockmart, Polk county. Amended and passed.

To change and straighten the lines between Taylor and Talbot counties. Passed.

STATE ROAD LEASE.

The majority report on the State Road lease being the unfinished business of Thursday, was taken up.

Mr. Hudson said he for one, notwithstanding the discouraging action of the Senate would not bow to mammon. Gentlemen had entertained the House with two hours speeches on the policy of the lease, when the question before the House was the fairness or unfairness of the lease. The bond signed by Joseph E. Brown only seemed to the State the property—the road itself—which was already the property of the State itself. The Presidents of the various railroads were not authorized to sign the bonds and thereby attempt to make the company as securities. The securities were certainly doubtful, and that was sufficient. Members of the company had tickled Bullock with a promise of a foreign mission, a subterfuge unbecoming honorable men. Brown asked for $50,000, and utterly refused to tell for what purpose he intended to put it. He was cautious. If the lease was fair, why should he be? Hill refused to allow the appropriation because he distrusted Brown. Mr. Hill, to let him tell it, was the father of the Democratic party, and the father of everything that was noble, true and good, in his estimation, and that he was representative of the people of Georgia in this and everything else. He heard a negro hymn at a camp meeting, which he thought was applicable to him (Hill.)

> "You may talk about me, just as you please,
> Spread my name abroad,
> But really I do believe, from the bottom of my heart,
> I'm a chosen vessel of the Lord."

Mr. Hudson, in commenting upon the contradictory testimony of Mr. Hill and Mr. Wells, said that while he respected the great talent of Mr. Hill, and was honored by his friendship, and had confidence in his veracity, he had a duty to perform, and that duty prompted him to say that Mr. Wells, though in an humble walk of life, and of at least equal veracity, should not be stricken down by him to support Mr. Hill, when nothing could be said by any than those interested against his character for veracity—

> "Who shall judge a man from nature?
> Who shall know him from his dress?
> Paupers may be fit for princes,
> Princes for something less."

He exhorted the House to stand to the honor of the State, and condemn these moneyed rings which threatened to corrupt the State.

Mr. Simmons said that one of two consequences would result from the adoption of the majority report—either the Governor would have to commence suits for the recovery of the road, or order it to be seized. The silence of the stockholders in those railroad companies whose presidents had signed the bonds as securities amounted to a ratification. The charter of the Georgia Railroad Company authorized such indorsement, for it protected the interests of that company. Similar provisions were to be found in the charters of the Central, and Macon and Western Railroads. The companies had the right, under their charters, to indorse the bonds for security. The purpose of the combination was not to choke off bidders. It did not deprive the Seago Company, or the Austell Company. Every person was free to bid at a Sheriff's sale, and the proposition to lease the Road was an analogous case.

The $50,000 which Brown asked for, he believed was to compensate gentlemen, who were disappointed in getting an interest in the lease.

Mr. Hudson—Does the gentleman think that is good, that to give $50,000 to some gentlemen who were disappointed?

Mr. Simmonns—I think there was nothing wrong in it.

Did the majority report make out such a case as would authorize a Court of Equity to cancel the report? White never testified directly and positively as to what disposition was made of the $50,000. On that point the evidence of Brown, Hill and W. B. Johnston was conclusive and satisfactory.

Mr. Netherland stated that the gentleman who were in favor of the lease, ignored the issue before the House. He disclaimed any intention to attack the lease act. The gentleman from Floyd discussed the right of the Seago company, a subject entirely foreign to the question before the House. Two witnesses testified that Cameron and Delano were imported for the express purpose of influencing Bullock. His first proposition in favor of the majority report, was that the securities were insufficient. It was a principle of law that the presidents of stock companies were not authorized to bind the stockholders. The freights of the roads had not increased, they were not benefitted by such contract, and therefore the stockholders were not bound to indorse the action of the President under the charter. Where were the securities then? And without securities who would contend that the lease was fair? Again, the bond of the President of the road promised no other security than the road itself, which was the property of the State already. The law contemplated that the individuals comprising the company should be liable, whereas the bond as executed did not make them liable.

The combination between the Brown and Hill parties excluded members of both companies from bidding and withheld from the State the sum of $600, and the principle was as good as if it withheld $1,000,000. In another instance it withheld from the State the monthly sum of $10,000, and still another $5,000. Some said $25,000 were all it was worth, yet the Hon. B. H. Hill was willing to come down from his lofty position and shake hands over the "bloody chasm" with Joe. Brown, the honorable Chief Justice of the State, who had also descended from his lofty place for the purpose of accepting this road at a sacrifice. (Applause.) It was a remarkable fact that nearly all the witnesses, on these points, were lessees, and the facts obtained from them were dragged out of them. Mr. Hill had not touched the $50,000. He further came as a voluntary witness before the committee and had not denied nor contradicted Mr. White's testimony. Neither did Brown nor any one else deny it, and it never had been denied. He had notified all—Brown and Hill included—that they were at liberty to appear.

Mr. Hall—Why did not you summon Gov. Brown to testify?

Mr. Netherland—Because we cared not to have an interested party and shrewd lawyer to testify in his own behalf, when they had plenty of honest witnesses. It was moreover unnecessary, for the committee had already sufficient evidence to establish the fact of fraud, and that was enough. [Applause.]

Leaves of absence were granted Messrs. Jones, of Gwinnett; Howell, Johnson of Spalding; Goldsmith, Clower, Rutherford.

The following resolution, introduced by Mr. Richards, was adopted:

Whereas, It is ascertained, upon inquiry of the Clerk of the Bond Committee, that certain testimony of one Charles L. Frost, taken by said committee, is not in the hands of said Clerk, where the other testimony of said committee is to be found; therefore,

Resolved, That the Clerk of said committee be directed forthwith to place the testimony of said Charles L. Frost, taken as aforesaid in the entirety, in the Secretary of State's office, where the same can be examined at the pleasure of the members of the House.

House took a recess until 3 P. M.

Connubialities.

Counsel, (to witness,) "Now, sir, what is the character of the plaintiff in this suit?" Witness, "Her character is slightly matrimonial." Counsel, "What do you mean by a slightly matrimonial character?" Witness, "She's been married seven times."

That was a sly old Scotchman, who, on marrying a very young wife, was rallied by his friends on the inequality of their ages. "She will be near me," he replied, "to close my een" "Well," remarked another of the party, "I've had two wives and they opened my een."

To the Superior Court of said county:

YOUR petitioner, Paul Jones, Senior, showeth that in due course of trade and for a valuable consideration, on the 19th day of December, 1871, by purchase from Jesse C. Kyle, he acquired title to a promissory note (here to the Court shown) for the sum of Eight Thousand Dollars, made by Amy H Sells, W A S Rondeau and P H Snook, payable to said Kyle, or bearer, dated February 13th, 1871, and due on or before the first day of January, 1872; and that at the same time he, by assignment from the said Kyle, acquired title to a mortgage deed, (here also to the Court shown) executed by said Amy H. Sells to said Kyle and his assigns, to secure the payment of said note, and bearing even date therewith; which mortgage deed covers and embraces all that tract or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the city of Atlanta, and being part of A J Orme's subdivision of block number one hundred and forty-six, in original lot number fifty-one, in the fourteenth district of originally Henry now Fulton county—said portion fronting north on East Harris street, one hundred and eighty-three feet and running back on Butler street two hundred and two feet, with all the rights, members and appurtenances to the said premises in anywise belonging.

Your petitioner avers that the condition of said mortgage deed is broken, that said note is wholly unpaid, and that the amount due thereon is eight thousand dollars, principal, besides lawful interest from maturity. He therefore prays that said mortgage may be foreclosed, and that the usual rule to that end be granted and served according to law.

L. E. BLECKLEY,
Petitioner's Attorney.

June 7, 1872.

On filing the foregoing petition, it is ordered by the court that the said mortgagor, Amy H. Sells, pay into court on or before the first day of the next term, to wit, the second Monday in October next, the principal, interest and cost, or show cause why the equity of redemption in and to the said mortgaged premises should not be forever barred and foreclosed; and that this rule be served as prescribed by law.

Petitioner's Attorney

Let there be no crimination or recrimination on account of acts of other days.—A. H. Stephens.

No canvassing of past conduct. Great disasters are upon us and upon the whole country; and, without inquiring how these originated, or at whose door the fault should be laid, let us now, as comon sharers of common misfortunes, on all occasions consult only as to the best means, under the circumstances as we find them, to secure the best ends towards future amelioration.—*A. Let old issues, old questions, old differences and old feuds be regarded as fossils of another epoch. They belong to what may hereafter be considered as the silurian period of our history.—A. H. Stephens.

Let all patriots, by whatever distinctive name heretofore styled, rally, in all sections everywhere, to the support of him, BE HE WHO HE MAY, WHO BEARS THE STANDARD WITH CONSTITUTIONAL UNION EMBLAZONED ON ITS FOLDS.—A. H. Stephens.

Greeley bears the standard of Constitutional Union. Let all patriots rally to him.

Let there be no canvassing of his past conduct. That belongs to the silurian period of our history.

Supreme Court Reports.

Col. N. J. Hammond, late Supreme Court Reporter, has just issued Part 2, Volume 43, of the Supreme Court Decisions, containing part of July Term, 1871, and including from page 537 to 743. The lawyers can now obtain it.

Books, Music.

Messers. Phillips & Crew have the latest publications from the first publishing houses of the country, and also the newest music out. No one, who wants music, or an interesting book, will fail to visit Phillips & Crew's.

Our book notices cannot appear in this issue.

For Congress.

The friends of Hon. Joseph F Pou, of Muscogee, are pressing him for Congress. We have, with pleasure, noticed the course of Mr. Pou in the Legislature. He is a man of solid political worth and ability; and, in our judgment, would serve the people with fidelity, ability and zeal.

Kissing as a Political Fine Art.

The Cincinnati Commercial has taken a tangent. It saw somewhere that Grant, in traveling in New York, had kissed several babies. Thereupon it bases a clever dissertation on kissing as a political fine art. It grows sentimentally retrospective. It recalls how Washington Irving was proud because George Washington once kissed him in his babyhood. Forty or fifty years ago it was a favorite method of Presidential electioneering. Andrew Jackson resorted to it beneficially. Abe Lincoln did some of it. But Andrew Johnson didn't adopt it at all. Grant didn't try it in his first campaign, but is hard pushed now, and is at it zealously.

As for Governors, Congressmen and State Legislators, they have kissed babies broadcast to win votes.

The English, too, used to do it in the old days. Candidates kissed clean and highly respectable brats without much difficulty, but now there are so many ragged, dirty, unfortunates, the custom is falling in disuse.

The English however, went farther than the Americans ever have. Candidates' wives have kissed voters for votes. The beautiful Duchess of Devonshire kissed the voters to get her husband elected. The haughty lady Palmerston did the same. One fellow went too far. He went to kissing the wives of all the voters, and they rebelled and defeated him.

The prospect seems to be that the custom is to come back in the zeal of a hot canvass. Greeley has not begun it yet, but of course will soon be in the ring kissing away as vigorously as anybody.

There is one branch of the subject of some delicacy, however. Who is to kiss the colored babies? We know of nobody to do justice to this side of the matter, but Amos T. Akerman and Henry P. Farrow, in the camp of Ulysses.

"We."

In a speech of one of the honorable members of the House a few days since occurred an allusion to the "we" of THE CONSTITUTION, ridiculing the idea of our representing the people, when in fact, the opinion of an individual only is presented. Whether this was the idea intended or not, it is one often advanced by disputants, who thus seek to break the force of the influence of the press. Setting aside the fact that the use of the word we is really an emanation of modesty, and to avoid the egotistical pronoun I.

Once for all, therefore, we desire to say that, though a single editor may justly speak for the people on account of his intimate relations with them and his greater facilities for ascertaining their wants and opinions, yet in the case of THE CONSTITUTION the matter is in a stronger light. No political position is assumed, and no course adopted upon any matter of vital importance either to the public or to party, without consultation and agreement by the proprietors and political editors of THE CONSTITUTION. Nor do we rely solely upon our own judgments and sources of information, but frequently summon into council, friends whose intellects are the pride of the State. And it is a matter of great pleasure to add, that during the present proprietorship there has been entire unanimity of sentiment among the conductors of this journal upon all public matters of great moment, though non-essential differences have existed.

The two-fold result of this sort of management is evident: First, THE CONSTITUTION has made few editorial mistakes. It is generally right, and a position, once taken is rarely receded from. Secondly, success has followed the course or policy adopted by the paper. Having carefully labored and patiently sought the right, discarding precipitancy of action, the people have almost invariably agreed with us upon all great issues. And finally, our course has been generously rewarded by the confidence of the people, for knowing our prudence, our deliberation, our thorough search for the right, and seeing the unbroken success attending our efforts to destroy the wrong and speed the right, they give us a confidence they feel is deserved.

Georgia Rollickers on the Matrimonial Rampage.

The Daily Saratogian published in Saratoga, New York, has an account of some bigamous rampaging of a Georgia gentleman from Macon, named John E. Hollingsworth

It seems that a sentimental grocer of Philadelphia, named W. H. Tamblestone, ravenously tumbled in love with a Miss Mamie Levy—a wealthy young heiress. She returned the love.

Her mother, a politic widow, hustled the young chignon to Georgia to get her out of love's way, and put the lovers at long taw. She is diplomatized to substitute the young Hollingsworth for Tumblestone in Miss Mamie's affections.

Miss Mamie skeedaddled surreptitiously from the matrimonial machinations in which she was to be inveigled, returned to her adored Tumblestone, and by the aid of a convenient clergyman became Mrs. Tumblestone. The newly married fair immediately separated, the bride returning home to her mother.

Then according to this verocious Saratogian chronicler the female parent and the disappointed Hollingsworth began a conspiracy. They all met (on purpose) accidentaly at Saratoga. The gifted Georgian succeeded in persuading the deluded mother that the Tumblestone marriage was invalid on account of lack of consummation. Together they badgered the young bride into a marriage with the conspirational Georgian.

Tunblestone got wind of the fraud and rushed to Saratoga. His wife had made a brigamist of herself with the knowledge of her mother and the felonious Georgian Tumblestone tumbled the case before a magistrate. The docket has the case recorded for trial and the parties have left.

Cotton.

The receipts this week are 1,500 bales; 7,000 less than last year, and 3,000 less than two years since. It is likely the receipts for next week will be 2,000 bales compared with 7,000 last year, and 5,000 the year before; and receipts at interior towns 500 bales, compared with 1,500 last year, and same the year before.

The past week has been such weather as we intimated it would be, in our last. Two days clear and pleasant, and five days cloudy with light showers, wind steadily east Thermometer has averaged 82 at noon. For next week we expect the weather to be warmer, possibly hot, and no rain, except it may be local thunder storms. Gold has risen the past week to 15¼, and as one ring in New York bought from the government two millions one day, it looks like they expected to carry it still higher; but we do not think they will succeed, except, possibly to make a sharp corner, lasting only a week or so. The interior country is now well drained of cotton, scarcely a bale left anywhere, but we think the receipts are about at their lowest point. The crop in Texas is so fine and early that the receipts are already increasing at Galveston. A word, now, to those of our readers who are dissatisfied with this weekly circular: our intentions are, as to the past and present, to state facts, and only facts, and giving the reasons causing such a state of facts to exist, and we appeal to our unbiased readers if our statements have not been true. As to the future, we have perhaps been generally as correct as it is possible to be, and to any one who thinks they can do better we would quote Job 31st chapter and 35th verse. We know many are opposed to even the truth, when it effects their interest, that is the reason why so many are opposed to a bear circular; they believe it is true, but must still hold their cotton, and take lower prices, as many will do this fall.

Cotton has risen this week both in Liverpool and New York. The causes have been Manchester had to buy more than they had bought for a long time, and holders knowing their wants put the price upon them, but they are now buying large amounts of the new crop to be delivered by steamer in three weeks from the time it leaves the plantation, so those who are holding their cotton in Liverpool for a pinch in October or November, may find it on their hands with not many purchasers. The cause of the better feeling in New York is that as the price is now down to an export basis, there is a large demand for export, and also the fear of the worms destroying the crop has affected the later months.

The floods in Alabama destroyed 100,000 bales, and now our reports from Florida, Southern Alabama, and Southwest Georgia are such as we think may result in the destruction of 150,000 bales more from caterpillars, as they have already destroyed some fields. The talk of damage from boll worms, we do not think amount to anything, as they always do some damage, but always more when the weather is wet than when dry. In our last two circulars we stated the caterpillar might eat the cotton and affect the prices. Our own opinion is they will destroy some cotton entirely and injure more, but that the larger portion of the crop is, and will be, uninjured. We have stated the damage from floods and worms would be 250,000 bales, and this will have a temporary influence to sustain the later months, but we apprehend that as soon as very large receipts begin to arrive at the ports which on account of the price will be very early, that we shall lose sight of the damage, and believe in a large crop. We again report there is no danger of a short supply of American this fall, as there is more than enough. We are well acquainted with the habits of the cotton catterpillar; and from the time a large number of them are seen in the fields, it will be six weeks until they destroy the crop, as the successive crops of them come along about three weeks apart, usually taking two to completely destroy the cotton.

The Commencement Exercises of Conyers Female College.

We plead "business" as an excuse for not reporting the Commencement exercises in our last issue. We were busy then—very busy, and what young man was not busy? We know two young men who didn't eat more than four meals for a week. We don't know what they subsisted on during those long days, we only know they were up with the lark every morning hastening to the College.

Visitors from this, and adjoining counties, crowded the usually quiet town during Commencement week. Pretty ladies, fine dresses, and fast horses were the attractions that charmed our people and carried the day.

EXAMINATIONS.

The Examination of the Primary Department began on Wednesday, the 24th ult., at 2 o'clock. This Department is presided over by Miss Fannie L Stewart, and judging from the proficiency evinced by her pupils during a very close and impartial examination, right well has she performed her difficult but noble work. The examination was conducted by the examining committee, composed of Messrs. Gleaton, Swift, Smith, Carr and Bryant. The greatest possible compliment that we can pay Miss Stewart is to say that the praise accorded to her by the committee, in their report, is echoed by the entire community.

On Thursday the Preparatory and Sophomore classes, under the tuition of Professors Guinn and Brittain, were examined. The report of the Committee obviates the necessity of giving the proceedings of the day in detail. We must say, though, that we, with the entire audience, were much pleased with the examinatian of Mr. Guinn's classes in Mathematics. We had no solving of problems by rote, but a thorough, practical examination which reflects credit both upon the teacher and pupils.

Friday the Junior and Senior classes were examined and bore their parts in the drama equal to the demands made on their respective positions; in fact and finally, everybody acted well their parts.

COMMENCEMENT SERMON.

On Sunday, Dr. Means, of Oxford, preached a fine, practical sermon, full of noble sentiment and towering thought. It was one of his best efforts, and was greatly appreciated by his audience.

Monday morning compositions were read by pupils in the Preparatory department. It is not our purpose to depreciate the merits of any composition that was read, but the commonest kind of justice demands an especial notice of the one by Miss Eliza Hughes. Her subject was "Heaven from all creatures hides the Book of Fate." We think that it was well chosen, ably handled, and well read.

On Tuesday and Wednesday the Junior and Senior classes read compositions. What we heard of them were good.

The Baccalaureate, by President Britain, was very much appreciated by the audience.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY ADDRESS.

After the conclusion of President Britain's address, Col. E. Y. Clarke, of Atlanta, was introduced, who delivered one of the most eloquent, as well as eminently practical addresses, it has been our privilege to listen to for a long while It abounded with many valiant thrusts at the absurd follies trudging along in the train of fashion, and lashed its votaries with unsparing hands; yet, to woman—true, gentle, and noble—he gave the highest mede of praise. It was, altogether, a most happy effort, and was well received by a large and appreciative audience, and we congratulate the Colonel on his success.

On Wednesday night the accomplished instructress in music, assisted by her class, gave a musical entertainment. The hall was so crowded that we could not get in, but we learn that all who were fortunate enough to get a seat, were well pleased and highly entertained. Thus the gay week in Conyers passed off, and all were happy.

The Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel has the following:

The compositions of the young ladies were on subjects in keeping with the times, and highly appropriate to the occasion. The Bacchalaureate, by the President, was prolific in thought, wise in counsel, and not an eulogy upon woman, but upon the principles that adorn her character. It was just what all such addresses ought to be—brief and to the point.

Col. E. Y. Clarke, of Atlanta, delivered the annual address. * * * * It abounded with wit and humor, which brought frequent roars of cheer from the audience, and was eminently practical and appropriate.

The Conyers Examiner says:

Miss Jack Stewart was the only graduate and consequently obtained the first honor. We watched the examination of Miss Stewart closely and critically, and we do not hesitate in saying, that she well deserved the first honor, even had there been other competitors. Her composition was well written, and was read with much accuracy and touch, although the reader was somewhat embarrassed; we suppose from the fact that she was expected (being the first graduate) to do more than the others. Miss Stewart is the first graduate of this College, and we think it is a fact to be proud of by her. We are not afraid to say that she will reflect credit on the College, wherever she may go.

There were at least one hundred students in attendance last term.

The Lease! The Lease! The Lease!

Editors Constitution: Your paper has been considered the most valuable of all public journals in our State. It has been read with the deepest interest by almost all the people in this section, and your policy has nearly always proven just and right. Your "big, fat agent" is very popular with us and is met universally with the most cordial welcome by his many friends in this portion of the State. You have a live, clever agent in our town.

We, in a nutshell, are more than pleased with your fast way of running your machine, but one thing sure we will complain, and complain muchly, if you do not devote your paper to something else more important to the tax payers of Georgia than filling up your columns with stuff from the disappointed ring of those who failed to obtain, or those who failed to give, security for that great property of the people—the State Road.

The people here are fully satisfied, especially, after reading the report of the investigating Committee, that the present lessees came into possession of the Road fairly; that they are fully entitled to it, and that any effort made to take it from them is unjust, and will result simply in the cost of thousands of dollars to the poor and oppressed tax payers of the State. A representative who is familiar with the statistics of this Road up to the Radical administration, under the administration of such men as Hershell V. Johnson, Howell Cobb, and other honest executives, will not by any means be met with a cordial greeting by those who have entrusted their interest to him, should they interfere with this great financial arrangement for the State. And the representative who is not familiar, would do well to examine and ascertain what this road did in the aggregate in the way of incumbering the State with an endless amount of reaction and a continued burden of taxation up to the day of the lease. But we knew the lessees will be sustained. We know it ought to be sustained. That so long as Governor Brown remains at the helm, regardless of what our private or political predelections may be of him, just so long will the State get $25,000 per month.

We know that $25,000 is $25,000 more than we have got heretofore. We know it is a big thing for the tax-payers, at least of Southwest Georgia, who have never derived any benefit from it heretofore. Hence, will you not forbid our hard earnings being further absorbed by this Seago concern. There is no Seago in the people here; but I believe I can truthly state that every man, woman and child in Randolph county indorses the present lease. I reiterate that we are for it here. So stop trying to satisfy these disappointed fellows, by giving them all your columns to convince all intelligent people that they can give a good and sufficient security for the great Western and Atlantic Railroad, as they had an opportunity of doing so and made a signal failure. The Road has been leased in accordance with the law. That lease cannot be set aside. The people don't want it interfered with. The Legislature will not molest it. Then, for God's sake, let the Legislators do that which the people desires to be done, that they may come home and help get the caterpillars out of our cotton, so we may be able to pay the tax already incurred legitimately. If Seago is obliged to have a railroad, give him a charter for two or three miles somewhere and let him build it, for we are strictly opposed to him having any thing whatever to do with the State's property.

CUTHBERT.

Netherland on Fraud—Will he Explain!

Editors Constitution: I see that Mr. Netherland, the member from Rabun county, who was one of the committee to investigate the fairness or unfairness of the lease contract of the Western and Atlantic Railroad, was making rather an excited—some think somewhat vindictive—speech against the lessees, on Saturday, when the House of Representatives adjourned. He claims to be a very honest man, and has a great aversion to fraud of any character, and he is attempting to convince the House of Representatives that there has been fraud perpetrated upon the State by the lessees.

On looking to the Comptroller General's last report, on page sixty, I find that Mr. Netherland, as member from Rabun county, drew $110 for mileage. I don't know the exact distance to Clayton, his home, but think it is just about one hundred miles by railroad to Gainesville, and thence the regular route by way of Clarkesville to Clayton. If I be right, he has charged a little more than double the mileage allowed him. Report says he had a free ticket over the railroad from Atlanta to Gainesville, and went the direct route, but that he charged mileage down the Georgia Road to Uunion Point, up to Athens and thence to Clayton, about double the distance he travelled. Seeing his great aversion to fraud, however, I must discredit this report, but as he still has the floor to conclude his speech against fraud on Monday, would it not be well for him to explain this little transaction, and state upon what principle he did charge $110 mileage from Atlanta to Clayton.

I notice that Dr. Kililan, from Towns, the adjoining county, on the North Carolina line, drew only $60 mileage, and Mr. Reed from Union county, adjoining Towns, on the North Carolina line not quite so far from Atlanta, drew $55 mileage. And the Hon. C. J. Wellborn, the Senator from Mr. Netherland's district, who lives in Union, drew $55 mileage. He lives but a few miles nearer Atlanta, if any, than Mr. Netherland does, while Mr. Netherland drew just twice as much mileage.

While I do not allege fraud in this transaction, I would modestly hint that it raises a slight suspicion of fraud, which I have no doubt Mr. Netherland will take great pleasure in explaining to the House, while he is discussing fraud, before he concludes his speech on Monday next. Would it not be well for the committee of which Mr. Netherland is a member, to investigate the fairness or unfairness of this little pecuniary transaction. Possibly it might afford matter for a good majority report, and some good speeches. I again express the hope that Mr. Netherland will not forget the proper explanation before concluding his great speech on fraud.

TAX PAYER.

The Catoosa Democracy for J. A. W. Johnson for Congress.

RINGGOLD, GA., Aug. 7, 1872.

Editors Constitution: The people of this (Catoosa) county were never in finer spirits; and it is doubtful whether they have ever been in better condition. A full wheat crop has been garnered, and the corn crop promises to be immense.

The Superior Court has been in session during the week—considerable business has been transacted. His Honor, Judge McCutchens, presides with dignity and ability. The foreman of the grand jury informed me that but two true bills have been found during the term, and they for minor offenses. The dockets show that but nine (9) civil cases have been returned to the term. Verily reconciliation and peace, in other than in a political sense, seems about to be realized by these people.

On Tuesday (yesterday) a large Democratic meeting was held in the court house for the purpose of appointing delegates to the District Congressional Convention. The body of the people seem, here as elsewhere, determined to take political matters into their hands. It was determined by resolution to vote for the candidates before the people for nomination with the understanding that the delegates to the convention should support the candidate receiving the largest vote. There were but two candidats proposed—Col. J. A. W. Johnson and Gen. P. M. B Young. The vote stood, for Johnson 123; for Young 58.

W. M. Dunn, M. Dickson, Dr. A. S. Fowler. J. P. Blackwell and J. H. Johnston were appointed delgates to the convention.

The delegates elected to the Senatorial Convention are instructed to vote for the Hon. W. H. Paine, the present able representative from this county, as the next candidate for Senator for the 44th Senatorial District.

The Catoosa Springs, about three miles from this place are thronged with visitors. The grounds and buildings are in excellent order, and accommodations elegant. A more select and refined company of visitors cannot be found at any watering place in the United States, and if the opinions of medical and scientific men, as well as the experience of invalids can be relied upon, waters of finer curative qualities cannot be found on the Continent.

CATOOSA.

ATLANTA, GA., August 9, 1872.

Editors Constitution: I notice in your paper of this morning a synopsis of my argument in the Senate on yesterday on the lease of the Western and Atlantic Railroad, which does not do me justice. I presented at length only one view of the question; this view was that the evidence showed that Kimball manipulated Gov. Bullock so as to get a lease, in which he and his father-in-law, George Cook, were to have two and a half shares. That the evidence of E. L. Jones, Cashier of the Georgia National Bank, and of A. J. White as to Kimball's declaration that the lessees owed their seats to certain obligations amounting to $180,000, which had been incurred, proved a case of fraud in procuring the lease. That Mr. Hill, Gov. Brown, and all the other lessees, except Kimball, were free of fraud in their view of the case.

I argued from the evidence that Governor Brown had demanded from the lessees a large sum of money to satisfy disappointed lessees, amongst whom he named General Gordon and Dr. Geo. D. Phillips, both of whom had testified that Governor Brown was entirely wrong in saying that they were disappointed in not getting an interest in the lease. I did not discuss the testimony as to the $50,000, because I was exhausted by the labors of the morning.

Very respecfully,

WM. REESE.

DECISIONS

OF THE SUPREME COURT OF GEORGIA.

Delivered in Atlanta, Tuesday, August 6, 1872.

[REPORTED EXPRESSLY FOR THE CONSTITUTION BY HENRY JACKSON, SUPREME COURT REPORTER.]

C. J. Lopez vs. Felix McArdle, administrator. Relief Act of 1870, from Muscogee.

MONTGOMERY, J.

A claim by one partner against his copartner for an unascertained amount growing out of partnership transactions, and which can only be ascertained by a settlement of the partnership concerns, is not required, before such settlement, to be given in for taxation. Hence, where a bill is brought to compel such a settlement of a partnership, which ceased business without formal dissolution before June, 1865, it is not necessary for complainant to file an affidavit of payment of taxes on the claim sought to be enforced.

Judgment reversed.

Wm. Dougherty, Blandford & Crawford, B. A. Thornton, W. F. Williams, for plaintiff in error.

L. T. Downing, for defendant.

Wm. F. and Virginia Dennis, caveators, vs. W. J. Weeks, propounder. Caveat to will, from Talbot.

MONTGOMERY, J.

1. On the investigation of an issue of devisavit vel non, where one of the grounds of the caveat is, that the executor did by fraud and deceit, and fraudulent and false representations, procure the testator to make the will the admission of the executor, who takes an interest under the will, made after qualification, in reference to the conduct or acts of the executor himself, as to a matter relevant to the issue, (and his statement that he had procured the testator to make the will for certain purposes is such,) should have been admitted as evidence in chief.

The fact that such evidence was admitted in rebuttal to impeach the executor, who testified as a witness in favor of the will, is not the full measure of the rights of the caveators, and they are entitled to a new trial on account of the rejection of this testimony as evidence in chief.

2. Where one of the grounds of caveat is undue influence exercised by the executor over the testator, in procuring him to make the will, evidence showing that the executor, as agent of the testator, in 1863 or 1864, applied to the Confederate conscripting officer to have a white man exempted from military service for the purpose of overseeing the plantation of the testator, on the ground that the latter was so unsound in mind as to be incapable of attending to his own business, is admissible as evidence in chief for what weight the jury may give to it, to show the executor's knowledge of the state of the testator's mind, where the evidence, with the exception of that of the executor himself, shows that the executor exerted his influence over the testator (which was proved to be very great) to have the will made, and all the witnesses testify that the testator had been a man of very weak, if not entirely, unsound mind for fifteen years before his death, which occurred in 1869.

3. Evidence which ought properly to have been offered in chief, but which was then omitted through inadvertence, if offered with the rebutting evidence, should be admitted if otherwise unobjectionable.

The paper in the handwriting of the executor, made in 1857, showing the amount of property in his hands as agent of the testator, was proper evidence in chief, as tending to show the amount of interest taken by the executor under that clause of the will which relieved him from the payment of any balance that might be found due by him to the testator, other than that with which he is charged in the will, and should have been admitted with the rebutting evidence, where it was inadvertly omitted to be given in, in chief.

Judgment reversed.

B. Hill, H. L. Benning, Willis & Willis, for plaintiffs in error.

M. H. Blanford, E. H. Worrill, for defendant

Howard Hill and Wife vs. A. C. Felton. Equity, from Macon.

MONTGOMERY, J.

Where the Court is of opinion that there is no patent ambiguity in those parts of a will affecting the property in issue before it, and no latent ambiguity is raised by proof of extrinsic circumstances, the instructions of the testator to the scrivener who drew the will are inadmissible to shew that the testator intended to dispose of his property in a manner different from the direction it would take when the ordinary rules of construction are applied to the words of the will.

Judgment affirmed.

Lyon & Irwin, Phil. Cook, for plaintiffs in error.

Poe, Hall & Poe, Nesbitt and Jackson, W. A. Hawkins, for defendant.

WARNER, C. J., concurring.

In my judgment, there is no ambiquity on the face of the testator's will either latent or patent, which will authorize the admission of parol evidence to explain it. Whatever may be the difference of opinion as to the legal construction to be given the words employed by the testator, that does not create an ambiquity in the sense of the law, which may be explained by parol evidence. It is not competent to raise an ambiquity in relation to the testator's intention by parol evidence, extrinsic of the words of the will, and then proceed to explain that ambiquity so raised, by the same species of evidence, and that is just what is proposed to be done in this case, after the lapse of twenty years from the date of the execution of the will. A testator's will, should be construed according to the legal effect of the words contained therein, when those words are not ambiquous, or of doubtful meaning. The intention of the testator must be derived from the plain, unambiquous words of his will, and not from extrinsic parol evidence; otherwise, no man's will can stand, the parol evidence of witnesses after his death, will make one for him.

McCay, J., dissented, but furnishsd no written opinion.

Willoughby Jourdan, guardian, vs. Louis B Miller, et al. executors. Bill for direction, from Randolph.

McCAY, J.

When the executor to a will filed a bill for direction as to the meaning of the will making the legatee's parties and it appeared that the testator had by his will made the following dispositions:

1. He had provided for the payment of his debts.

2. He had directed, that after his debts were paid, his executor should divide his whole estate, both real and personal, into nine equal shares or parts. Each of his eight children and their representatives, to have one equal share subject to the draw backs and refundings afterwards provided, and his three youngest daughters to have the ninth share extra.

3. His will, item by item,, then provided that each child should have deducted from his portion or share the advancements made the child, which advancements were specially mentioned and their value.

4. As to the most of the children, he, item by item, donated that as a part of their portion they should take certain specified property, in some cases fixing to the property a valuation himself, and in other cases, saying that it should be valued by appraisers.

As to one child, and as to her alone, after saying she should take, as part of her portion, certain eight negroes at a fair valuation, he adds, should the said negroes, at a fair valuation, amount to more than her just portion she shall be required to funded the excess.

6. In the 6th item he directed that his son Iverson G. take, as part of his portion, a negro man Peter at $1,200, another man Green at a fair valuation, and that he take at his choice, lot of land 179 at $1,000, or lots 178, 179, 165, 166 at a valuation.

He directed that all of his lands not herein otherwise disposed of, should be sold or kept together as his executors should judge best, and that his negroes, not otherwise disposed of or mentioned, should be divided among his children according to the terms of this his last will, and that his other personal property should be sold for general distribution:

1. HELD, That taking the whole of the will together it was the clear intent of the testator to divide his property equally among his children, except that he gives his three youngest daughters one-ninth of the whole, extra, of an equal share.

2. WARNER, C. J., dissenting

On the 9th day of November, 1863, the testator made his will, bequeathing and divising certain specific and general legacies to his children named therein. The object and intention of the testator, as it appears from his will, was to make an equal division of his property among his children upon a final distribution thereof, so far as the amount to be received by each was concerned, and to accomplish that object he placed a valuation on the specific legacies bequeathed and devised to each, so that when the general distribution of the property, not specifically bequeathed and devised, should take place, it might appear what was the value of the specific legacy which each legatee had received. In other words, the legatees under his will were to take certain described property as specific legacies, at the valuation placed thereon by the testator, or at its appraised value, as a part of their portion or share of his estate, and when the general distribution of his estate should take place as provided by his will, the specific legacies should be estimated according to the value placed thereon by the testator, or according to the appraised value thereof. There was a large portion of the testator's property that was not specifically disposed of by his will. The 15th clause of the will provides, that his undevised slaves should be appraised, and divided amongst his children according to the terms of the will, and that all his other personalty be sold by his executors awarding to law for general distribution. The 11th item of the will gave to his executors the right to sell or keep as they pleased, the balance of his land (not specifically disposed of) as might be best for all of his heirs. At the time of the making of the will, the testator had a large residuary estate to be divided among his children under the will, which had not been specifically bequeathed or devised to any one of them. The 6th item of the testator's will is as follows: "I will and direct that my son Iverson G. Miller, take as part of his portion, the negro man Peter, whom he has now in possession at $1,200,00, and my negro boy, Green, at a fair valuation, and that he take at his choice, lot of land number 179, at $1,000,00, or lots numbers 179, 178, 165 and 176 at a fair valuation, all of said lots being in the fifth district of the aforesaid county of Randolph."

Iverson G. Miller died before the testator, leaving as his sole heir and legal representative, his infant child, Missouri P. Miller, who is now the legatee under this clause of the testator's will. It appear from the evidence in the record, that Jordan was appointed Guardian of Missouri P. Miller, and in 1865, he elected as such Guardian to take for his ward the four lots of lands specified in the testator's will, at the valuation made by the appraisers of the estate, (to-wit:) at the value of $2,400 00. It also appears from the evidence of Jordan that the executor Louis B. Miller placed him in possession of the lots of land as Guardian, and that he has continued in possession of the same up to the present time, and that the executor assented to the same. The executor testified that he placed the Guardian in possession of the land on condition, that it was decided that the land was the property of the estate, and not the property of his ward; and that he did not assent to the legacy unconditionally, but admitted, he had never demanded rent or possession of the land as executor. The only subject matter in controversy between the parties, is in relation to the four lots of land. On the trial, the jury, under the charge of the Court, rendered a verdict that the executor had not assented to the legacy, and that the Guardian should keep the land at the appraised value, subject to an equal division with the other legatees under the will, and charged him with interest on the value of the land as fixed by the appraisers. The verdict is substantially in accordance with the charge of the Court, to which the counsel for the guardian excepted. There are two questions to be decided in this case. First, whether the bequest or devise of the four lots of land was a general, or a specific legacy. Second, if it was a specific legacy, can the specific legatee be compelled under the law, to abate that specific legacy at the instance of the executor for the benefit of the other legatees under the will, who may have received less than the appraised value of that specific legacy? What is a specific legacy? A specific legacy is one which operates on property particularly designated—Code 2422. The four lots of land bequeathed or devised to Missouri P. by the testator's will, are particularly designated by number, and district, in the county of Randolph. The will distinguishes three particular lots of land from all his other property, and if it is not a specific legacy in the sense and meaning of the law, I comfess my utter inability to comprehend what the law means by a specific legacy, as contradistinguished from a general legacy.

The four lots of land are especially given to the legatee as a part of her portion to be taken at her choice, at a fair valuation. The fact that the specific legacy is to be a part of the legatee's portion of the testator's estate, or that she is to take the designated lots of land at a fair valuation, does not make the legacy any the less a specific legacy in the sense of the law. The same individual may be both a specific and residuary legatee. McGinnis vs. McGinnis—1st Kelly, 496. Missouri P. Miller was both a specific and a residuary legatee under the testator's will, and the only reason why a valuation was placed on the specific legacy by the testator was that when the residuum of the estate came to be distributed, it might be seen how much in value each specific legatee had received out of his estate. The testator was looking to the distribution of the residuum of his estate among his children, which constituted the greater portion thereof when he made his will. The next question is, can the specific legatee, under the will of the testator, under the law, be compelled, at the instance of the executor, to abate any portion of her specific legacy in favor of the residuary or general legatees under the will, when, from causes unforeseen by the testator at the time of making his will, such residuary or general legatees, have not received as much in value from his estate as the specific legatee? There are no creditors of the estate. When this case was before this Court, at a former term, at the instance of the executor, the Court gave a construction to this clause of the will, and held, that if the guardian of Missouri P., elected to take the four lots of land at the appraised value thereof, and went into the possession of the same with the assent of the executor, he is entitled to hold the same as the property of his ward under the will, without abatement, so far as the executor is concerned. See Jourdan vs Miller, 41st Georgia Rep. 51. The only disputed fact that exists in the case now, different from the facts that were then before the Court is, that the assent of the executor to the guardian's taking possession of the land for the benefit of his ward, was conditional, and not absolute. The fact that he did take possession, is not disputed, or that the executor has never since demanded possession of the land, or the rent thereof, from the guardian, but he now seeks to have the specific legacy abated for the benefit of the other legatees under the will, on the ground, that he never assented to the specific legacy. This is an adroit attempt to evade the judgment of this Court, in regard to the rights of the specific legatee under the will of the testator. The assent, or dissent, of the executor, has nothing to do with her legal rights under the will. If he has administered it and turned the property over to her guardian according to law, he has no right to interfere with it. The assent of the executor to a legacy, may be presumed by his conduct, as well as by his express consent, and he cannot by capriciously withholding his assent, destroy the legacy, and a Court of equity may compel him to assent to the legacy—Code 2416. The Court under the facts of this case, should have compelled him to assent to the legacy, even if his consent could not have been fairly presumed by his conduct. The specific legatee was not bound to pay interest to the executor on the value of her specific legacy for the benefit of the other legatees—Code 2423. But in no view of the law as applicable to the facts of this case, as I understand it, can the specific legatee be compelled, or required, to contribute or abate, any portion of her specific legacy in favor of the general or residuary legatees under the will of the testator, and the executor had no right to the possession of any part of it for the purpose of making distribution thereof. 1st Roper on legacies, 361; 3d Williams on Executors 1165. The rule is that residuary and general legacies abate in favor of specific legacies but specific legacies do not abate in favor of residuary or general legatees under the will of a testator. But it is said the testator's intention was to distribute his property equally among his children, that each one should receive the same amount in value; that such was the intention of the testator is quite clear and if his property had remained in the same condition at the time of distribution, as it was at the time he made his will, his intention could, and doubtless would have been carried out; but it did not remain in the same condition, and it must now be distributed under the law which regulates specific legacies and general and residuary legacies. The law must now control that matter whatever may have been the testator's intention when he made his will. The intention of testators cannot override the law As was well said by Nisbet, J., in delivering the judgment of this Court in Williams vs. McIntyre, (8th Geo. Reports 36,) "The testator's intention is imperative on the Courts, unless, it is in conflict with some established rule of law. If it is, the law is more imperious than the intention and the latter, will yield to the former. No man's will is so high in its obligations upon the Courts, as the laws of the land. If the intention could prevail against the law, then the will of a testator would make, or repeal the law, and the effect would be, that there would be no law to regulate the transmission of property by will." To hold that the bequest or devise of the four lots of land to Missouri P. in the testator's will, is not a specific legacy, would be to ignore the law which defines what a specific legacy shall be. To hold that her specific legacy shall abate in favor of the general residuary legatees of the testator, and that the executor can recover any part thereof for the purpose of distributing the same to them, would be to ignore the law regulating the payment of specific legacies, and general residuary legacies under the wills of testators, when, there is not sufficient assets to pay all in an equal amount. In my judgment, Missouri P, the specific legatee of the four lots of land specified in the testator's will, is entitled to have and hold the same without abatement as against the claim of the executor to recover any part thereof for the benefit of the other legatees under the testator's will, and that the judgment of the Court below should be reversed.

Wm. A. Black vs. R. Burtin. Sci fa to revive judgment, from Schley.

McCAY, J.

When a judgment was obtained on the 1st of April, 1861, but no execution was issued thereon until January 4, 1869.

HELD, That the judgment was not a satisfied but a dormant judgment, and it was error in the Court to dismiss a scire facias to revive, the same, as a dormant judgment.

2. So for as the act of 1856, generally known as Cone's Act, provides that a judgment upon which no execution has issued, within seven years from its date, or upon which execution if issued no return is made in seven years, shall as between the parties thereto be presumed satisfied fied said Act is a statute of limitations and was suspended by the several Acts passed from 1861 to 1865, suspending the statutes of limitations.

Reversed.

B. Hill, M. H. Blanford, for plaintiff in error.

C. F. Crisp, W. A. Hawkins, represented by R. F. Lyon, for defendant.

MONTGOMERY, J. concurring.

Were the questions involved in this case res integra, I might have some difficulty in coming to the same conclusion with Judge McCay. But this Court has at least twice settled the principle involved after elaborate argument by the best legal talent of the State. On those decisions the title to a vast amount of property in Georgia now rests. To overrule them would create a flood of litigation, and make innocent purchasers pay stale demands against their vendors of which they never hears.

It is time that the law affecting titles to property in Georgia was settled, and that it should not be liable to change with every change in the organization of this Court.

For these reasons I concur in the opinion of the Court as delivered by Judge McCay.

WARER, C. J., dissenting.

The judgment was not dormant under the laws of this State, and there was no necessity for its revival by scire facias, and for that reason the judgment of the Court below should be affirmed.

ATLANTA, GA., August 10, 1872.

Editors Constitution: I ask for a small place in your columns to reply to some of the unwarranted and malignant attacks made on the Police by the Hon. C. T. Goode in the House of Representatives, yesterday.

"He does not know and does not care for the Atlanta Police"

Well, I presume we can survive the gentleman's indifference.

"The Atlanta Police are black spots upon her bright escutcheon."

Wonderful. Yet I boldly assert that let them be black as they may, every man of them can show as bright a record for honesty, sobriety, integrity and morality as the Honorable gentleman. When he charges that the Atlanta Police are a set of "ruffians, who desecrate and disgrace the grey they wear." I hurl the foul imputation back at the villifier. These men did not desecrate the GREY when they received the honorable scars they are proud to wear—when languishing in Northern bastiles—or in bloody battle where they purchased their armless sleeves as the price of their devotion to Southern rights and Southern liberty; nor did I ever know one of them to get out of the service save by reason of honorable wounds received while wearing the grey and in honorable discharge of duty.

It is located in the neighborhood of a large class of children and adults to whom its influence is being made a great blessing. The Dedication Sermon will be preached by Rev. Further inquiries must be made over the signature of some one that I may know whether they are friends or enemies.

PIC-NIC AT ICKVILLE.—The party of young people comprising the private pic-nic, left the city yesterday at 5 P. M., and returned at one A. M., all feeling content with the perpect success. Some of the beautiful and aimiable ladies present were Misses A. I. O, L. S., and their cousins—genial and pleasant as the state which they represented—Misses D. J, and M. W., also Misses S-S, E. C., L. B., H. C., J. F., and Misses W. Last mentioned but among the first in excellence were the matrons of the party, Mrs. O-T., and C. who added very materially to the pleasure of the occasion.

A fine band was in attendance inspiring and enticing all to be followers of Terpsichore for the evening. Supper was announced about 10 o'clock and the appearance and quality of the table was worthy the ladies superintending it, and was discussed with freedom and warmth. Before the party returned many of the young men were thinking with Byron of woman that,

> "Placed in all her charms before me,
> All I forget but to adore thee."

O me at least was heard to agree with him. Many thanks are due Mr. Brown, the kind and affable superintendent of the Ice Works.

PICKED UP.—Yesterday a young man calling himself Binum got T. C. Mayson to sell a black horse and top buggy for him. Mayson not suspecting anything wrong, was selling the horse and buggy. One hundred and sixty-four dollars was the highest bid for the lot. This not being the value of them, Lieutenant Henry Holmes began to smell a mice. Binum is about twenty years of age. Lieutenant Holmes told him he was suspicioned, and wanted to know something about it. Binum produced a letter (without an envelope) purporting to be written by his father, J. M. Binum, and dated at Memphis on the 5th. The letter urged the son to sell his horse and buggy and go to Augusta. Binum stated that he left Rome on the 7th. This not tallying with the letter, Lieutenant Holmes told him that was too thin. He then asked him to write down the names of several persons who knew him, which he did, and the handwriting was identical with that of the letter. Satisfied that Binum was guilty of something wrong, Lieutenant Holmes told him he had better tell the truth. Binum confessed then that he stole the horse from Coleman & Hall, of Memphis, because he had been discharged. He came through the country via Corinth, Russellville and Cave Spring to Atlanta. He further stated that he was of a good family, and regretted the affair on their account. He was arrested and lodged in jail, and the horse and buggy secured. It is reported that a reward of $200 is offered for him.

The Daily Constitution.

GREEN FIELDS JUST IN SIGHT!

At the portals of the morning,
Stood a child with dainty feet,
All about him golden sunshine,
Pearly dew and blossom sweet;
And with tender, dimpled fingers,
Plucked he flowers fresh and fair,
And the over-hanging branches
Showed the dew drops in his hair.

Looking forward o'er life's pathway,
Saw he broader fields of green,
Skies with snowy clouds so fleecy,
Here and there blue shreds between;
And with swiftly flying footsteps,
Started he for fields more bright;
But in vain he hurried onward,
They were always just in sight.

Warmer, brighter, grew the sunshine,
Broader, rougher, grew the way;
But with green fields just before him,
Nothing could his footsteps stay,
So he wandered till manhood
Took the place of childhood fair,
Then he threw aside his flowers,
Wiped the dewdrops from his hair.

Onward, onward, toiling, striving,
Helping others with his might,
Dreamed he that the blooming fields
That are always just in sight
Lay within the cold dark river.
Here we only wish and wait,
Till the Master calls us over,
And unbars the pearly gate.

The Liberal Platform.

The following are the resolutions in full adopted by the Liberal Republican National Convention at Cincinnati in May, and endorsed by the Democratic Convention in July:

We, the Liberal Republicans of the United States, in National Convention assembled at Cincinnati, proclaim the following principles as essential to a just government.

First—We recognize the equality of all men before the law, and hold that it is the duty of the government, in its dealings with the people, to mete out equal and exact justice to all; of whatever nativity, race color, persuasion, religious or political.

Second—We pledge ourselves to maintain the union of these States, emancipation and enfranchisement, and to oppose any reopening of the questions settled by the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments of the Constitution.

Third—We demand the immediate and absolute removal of all disabilities imposed on account of the rebellion, which was finally subdued seven years ago, believing that universal amnesty will result in the complete pacification of all sections of the country.

Fourth—Local self-government, with impartial suffrage, will guard the rights of all citizens more securely than any centralized power. The public welfare requires the supremacy of the civil over the military authority, and the freedom of person under the protection of the habeas corpus. We demand for the individual the largest liberty consistent with public order, for the States self-government, and for the nation a return to the methods of peace and the constitutional limitations of power.

Fifth—The civil service of the government has become a mere instrument of partisan tyranny and personal ambition, and an object of selfish greed. It is a scandal and reproach upon our free institutions, and breeds a demoralization dangerous to the perpetuity of republican government. We, therefore, regard a thorough reform of the civil service as one of the most pressing necessities of the hour; that honesty, capacity and fidelity constitute the only valid claims to public employment; that the offices of the government cease to be a matter of arbitrary favoritism and patronage, and that public stations become again posts of honor. To this end it is imperatively required that no President shall be a candidate for re-election.

Sixth—We demand a system of Federal taxation which shall not necessarily interfere with the industry of the people, and which shall provide means necessary to pay the expenses of the government, economically administered, pensions, the interest on the public debt, and a moderate reduction, annually, of the principal thereof, and recognizing that there are in our midst honest but irreconcilable differences of opinion with regard to the respective systems of protection and free trade, we remit discussion of the subject to the people in their Congressional districts, and to the decision of Congress thereon, wholly free of Executive influence or dictation.

Seventh—The public credit, must be sacredly maintained, and we denounce repudiation in every form and guise.

Eighth—A speedy return to spcie payments is demanded alike by the highest considerations of commercial morality and honest government.

Ninth—We remember with gratitude the heroism and sacrifice of the soldiers and sailors of the republic, and no act of ours shall ever detract from their justly earned fame or the full reward of their patriotism.

Tenth—We are opposed to all further grants of lands to railroads or other corporations. The public domain should be held sacred to actual settlers.

Eleventh—We hold that it is the duty of the government, in its intercourse with foreign nations, to cultivate the friendship of peace by treating with all on fair and equal terms, regarding it alike dishonorable either to demand what is not right or to submit to what is wrong.

Twelfth—For the promotion and success of these vital principles, and the support of the candidates nominated by this convention, we invite and cordially welcome the cooperation of all patriotic citizens, without regard to previous political affiliation.

Reading Notices.

Time and enlightened experience have shown that certain substances formerly used and relied on in medical practice, are unnecessary and dangerous; yet some of these substances have found their way into medical compounds. Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters, however, contain nothing injurious, being composed exclusively of vegetable substances from California. For all disorders of the liver, kidneys, bladder, skin, and digestive organs, and for purifying the blood, they are the most wonderful remedy known.

Triumphant for Twenty Years.—More than twenty years ago the Mustang Liniment made its debut in the West. Its cures of the various external diseases of horses and cattle, astonished the planters and farmers of the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys, and a demand for it sprung up which necessitated its manufacture on an extensive scale. Soon the discovery was made that it was a grand specific for rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, earache, toothache, and other external ailments of mankind. Then it was tried as a healing, pain-killing application, in cases of outward injury, such as cuts, bruises, burns, spasms, etc., and was found equally serviceable. The fame of the new remedy for some of the most painful ills that afflict mankind and the lower animals, spread rapidly, and Mustang Liniment soon took rank in every State and Territory of the Union as a standard cure.

We clip the following from the Troy (N. Y) Whig:

"Some three months since Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., commenced advertising in the Whig, an article called "Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. We believed at that time it was one of the many catch-penny arrangements to swindle people out of their money, but during the past few weeks have become convinced to the contrary. We know of several prominent citizens who have suffered from that loathsome disease "Catarrh," and they pronounce Dr. Sage's Remedy no humbug, and in several instances have been entirely cured. We desire to give Dr. Pierce the benefit of the same.

What We Need When Debilitated. Appetite and digestion languish at this season. At the very time when the body most needs renovation and support, the stomach its commissariat department, is apt to prove delinquent. Under such circumstances the necessity for a wholesome stimulant, tonic and corrective is self-evident, and consequently the demand for that peerless combination of the three required elements, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is never more urgent than at midsummer.

It is true that a few medical bigots—fossils "left over" from the dark ages—recommend violent purgation and water gruel as a cure for indigestion and its accompanying ills; but they make few proselytes. The majority of the community are sane, and all sane people are aware that a pure and powerful vegetable tonic with alterative properties, like Hostetter's Bitters, is the only cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, nervousness and the "consequential damages" they inflict.

The human intellect, unless hopelessly diseased or egregiously humbugged, declines to astonish the weakened human stomach with fierce cathartics that, rushing like an avalanche through the intestines, threaten to take the inner membrane with them. To use a significant catch-phrase the knock-down-and-drag-out methods of treatment are "played out."

It is clearly understood that a medicated stimulant is essential to the renovation of an exhausted frame and that you cannot strengthen man or woman by dosing them with prostrating preparations. That is an era of common sense, and common sense approves of Hostetter's Bitters as the best article extant for invigorating, regulating and purifying the system and defending it against poison in the air we breathe, or the water we drink.

Sterling's Southern Series

—OF—

Readers, Orators & Copy Books.

The undersigned now own the plates of the POPULAR SERIES; and as they are the only Purely Southern School Books offered in the market, we submit that it is to the interest of Teachers to patronize them. Send for circulars of Special Terms to Teachers—VERY LIBERAL. Specimen copies sent free for examination.

Prof. Orr, the Superintendent of Education for Georgia, says of them:

Messrs. J. W. Burke & Co., Macon, Ga.—Gentlemen: I have given to the Sterling Series of School Books, which you have had the kindness to leave with me, such examination as the limited amount of leisure at my command has allowed. With several books of the series I was already familiar, having added greatly to the interest of several public exhibitions, while engaged in active school work, by selections from their pages. While there ought not to be anything offensively sectional in our school literature, I must be allowed to say that it is with feelings of both pleasure and pride that I find in the pages of these books so liberal a recognition of Southern talent. I am glad, too, to learn that their publication is to be transferred to our own State. Southern independence will be soonest achieved by producing, as far as possible, every necessary for the supply of all our wants, both material and mental, upon our own soil. I will only add that I would be pleased to see the books extensively used.

Respectfully yours,
GUSTAVUS J. ORR,
State School Commissioner.

Is a powerful Tonic, especially adapted for use in the spring, when the languid and debilitated system needs strength and vitality; it will give vigor to the feeble, strength to the weak, animation to the dejected, activity to the sluggish, rest to the weary, quiet to the nervous, and health to the infirm.

It is a South American plant, which, according to the medical and scientific periodicals of London and Paris, possesses the most powerful tonic properties known to Materia Medica and is well known in its native country as having wonderful curative qualities and has been long used as a specific in all cases of IMPURITIES OF THE BLOOD, DERANGEMENT OF THE LIVER AND SPLEEN, TUMORS, DROPSY, POVERTY OF THE BLOOD, DEBILITY, WEAKNESS OF THE INTESTINES, UTERINE OR URINARY ORGANS.

DR. WELLS' EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

It is strengthening and nourishing. Like nutritious food, taken into the stomach, it assimilates and diffuses itself through the circulation, giving vigor and health.

It regulates the bowels, quiets the nerves, acts directly on the secretive organs, and, by its powerful Tonic and restoring effects, produces healthy and vigorous action to the whole system.
